

Error bars are training-seed variance at a fixed fold partition; open circles are the three seeds.
The two panels have independent axes: the datasets score different numbers of classes and their levels are not comparable.